

Victorian Branch of the ESA Nomination for the Young Economist Award

The branch nominate3 Nathan Deutscher for the Young Economist Award 2024.

Nathan has joint appointments working with the Federal Treasury where he is a Chief Data Officer, and he is a research fellow at the Tax and Transfer Policy institute at the Crawford School of Public Policy, ANU.

A young scholar, Nathan's research interest revolves around intergenerational mobility, neighbourhood spillovers, hysteresis in the labour market and human capital formation.

He has eight refereed papers and 315 google scholar citations.

The branch nominates him because he combines academic work with public policy and is not therefore a purely academic economist. Moreover his work has a ready and appealing application to public policy.
