

Code of Conduct

The Economic Society of Australia (ESA) and its State and Territory branches encourage informed public debate on important economic issues.

A diversity of views is welcomed, with the understanding that at all times interactions are conducted positively, respectfully, and free from all forms of harassment and discrimination.

Where necessary, the officers of the Society will act to ensure that appropriate conduct by members and guests attending its events is maintained.