

31st Australian Labour Market Research (ALMR) Workshop 2022

Call for Papers

After three years delay due to COVID-19 the 31st ALMR Workshop and the annual meeting of the Australian Society of Labour Economists (ASLE) will be held at the ANU Research School of Social Studies on Wednesday 30th November and Thursday 1st December 2022.

Call for Papers

Please submit papers by 1st October 2022
by email to phil.lewis@canberra.edu.au including "ALMR 2022" in the subject line.

Notification of Acceptance 31st October 2022

The ALMR Workshop is the annual meeting of the Australian Society of Labour Economists. The meeting is supported by the Australian Treasury, the Australian Department of Employment and Workplace Relations and the Australian Bureau of Statistics. The purpose of the meeting is to disseminate high quality research in labour economics and labour relations and to promote informed public debate about current labour market issues.

Participants and discussants will include senior academic economists and labour economists in the public and private sectors. Early career researchers, including PhD students close to completing, are particularly encouraged to submit papers. Any theoretical, applied or policy related papers on any aspect of the labour market are welcome.

Papers, which need only to be at 'working paper' stage, will be selected on the basis of their quality and in relation to their general interest. Preference will be given to papers on the following themes:

- 1) Employment, education, training and skills shortages
- 2) Labour markets and demographic changes
- 3) New ways work is organised
- 4) Gender equity
- 5) Contemporary labour market issues
- 6) Applied labour econometrics
- 7) Work, welfare and the disadvantaged

Enquiries to:

Phil Lewis, Workshop Coordinator

Email: phil.lewis@canberra.edu.au

Please include "ALMR 2022" in the subject line.